

Wolfgang Lundgreen

wolfgang.lundgreen@coverdale.de
Senior consultant, trainer, partner
With Coverdale since 1996

"I am concerned with ensuring that personal boundaries are respected and opportunities for development are created;

that my own range of activities – a strategic, methodical working approach and interaction with others – is consciously and systematically expanded;

that listening, respectful conduct toward others and the capacity to translate undertones, feelings and perception are important prerequisites for effective action and that enjoyment of the dynamics of work – of rubbing against each other, arguing, learning and celebrating each other – is firmly established in the working environment of the organization and everyone involved in it."

Professional Competence Profile

Consulting and training focuses

- Management personnel coaching
- Team and departmental development, change and organizational development processes
- Conflict solving, moderation and large-group facilitation
- Workshop design and planning based on specific client needs
- Training of competencies and development programs for managers and teams: leadership, teamwork, negotiation, moderation, change management, communication, presentation, project management and conflict management

Education and advanced training

- Degree in Business Engineering (Dipl.-Wirtschaftsingenieur), with specialization in Mechanical Engineering,
- Consultant and trainer training program at Coverdale Deutschland
- Telephone counselling
- Hakomi – Body-centered psychotherapy
- Transactional analysis
- Hypno-systemic resource- and solution-oriented
- Existential coaching
- Licensed Practitioner for Reflector Big Five Personality

Working languages

- German
- English